Website: Phone: (707) 765-7256 599 Tomales Rd, Petaluma, CA 94952, USA Report incorrect info Share Write a Review Medical Assistant X-Ray Technician Medical Laboratory Technician Physician Assistant The health services technician (HS) provides emergency healthcare services and daily medical care for Coast Guard personnel and their families. An HS tasks include assisting medical and dental officers; performing diagnostic testing, x-rays, lab tests, prescribing medications, administering immunizations and performing minor surgical procedures. An HS is normally assigned to a large Coast Guard clinic, small sick bay ashore or aboard a cutter. Types of Duty: An HS's first duty station is usually a large medical clinic where they have the opportunity to sharpen their skills under professional supervision. Later in their career an HS can be assigned independent duty aboard cutters or at small unit clinics where they provide for all of the crew's medical needs. The HS may also be assigned to temporary duty involving search and rescue, disaster response and medical-evaluation missions. Training Available: An HS receives five months of intense training at the HS "A" school in Petaluma, Calif. The training is performance based and provides lectures, laboratory demonstrations, practical exercises, and clinical experiences in the areas of anatomy, medical administration, basic clinical laboratory procedures, asepsis and sterilization technique, preventive medicine, nursing skills, pharmacy clinical sick call, wound repair, clinical services, leadership and management. The school also teaches classes about medical management information systems including; the Composite Health Case System, Provider Graphic User Interface and Medical Readiness Reporting System. Currently the school also includes a seven week basic course in Emergency Medical Technician training. Qualifications: Desire to help people needing medical and dental attention. Meticulous attention to detail. Pleasing personality and ability to work closely with others. Medical or dental experience is helpful. School courses in practical mathematics, anatomy, hygiene, biology, physiology, and chemistry are an advantage. Still Haven't Found Your Fit? Location: Northern California counties of Sonoma and Marin Website: Visit Tracen Petaluma Website » Phone: (707) 765-7320 Longitude: -122.783084 Latitude: 38.257571 DSN: N/A Tracen Petaluma Training Center has 10 schools with 50 different courses catering to 4000 students yearly. They also provide training to international students and to all the Coast Guard military and civilian employees. This also offers training for the novice in the different enlisted career fields and the management training in leadership and the Total Quality Management for all the personnel in all levels. The Training Center has courses for maritime law enforcement, computer operation, emergency medical technicians and management training. Petaluma bought Two Rock Ranch whose secret mission is to listen to the Japanese communications but become outdated when the Coast Guard converted it as a training ground during the Vietnam War. The USCG relieved the Army and took command of the Station. After the take over, they renamed it as Coast Guard Training Center, Petaluma. They changed the named to Petaluma because Two Rocks does not appear in the maps which is necessary for the Coast Guard members to locate the base when travelling. Right after the training center was opened, many Special Schools opened like schools for training Coast Guard cooks, and then Storekeeper school opened, the after 6 months the Radioman school opened. Less than a year the base is full of students. The Training Center comprises 800 acres of land with 219 buildings with 129 family units, a chapel, clinic, fire department and a small police department with complete training facilities in their over 200,000 square feet. Petaluma is the second largest town in the southernmost part of Sonoma County. Petaluma rapidly grows into an agricultural, trade and industrial state during the 1918 period. Today, it is still an agricultural county and the downtown was renovated and shopping centers and cafes are around the corner where the antique weekend shoppers gather. Petaluma has been part of movies since then like the "Basic Instinct", "Peggy Sue Got Married" and "American Graffiti. US Coast Guard Training Center Clinic is a group practice with 1 location. Currently, US Coast Guard Training Center Clinic specializes in Family Medicine and Optometry with 2 physicians.
